Junior Site Manager (m/f/d) – Technical Insulation – Nationwide

Your entry into management: from on-site professional to construction site manager

Have you learned your trade, are technically fit and are now looking for a real perspective? At TLC, we can offer you a career in construction management. We support our customers on challenging international projects and are looking for talented young people who are ready to take responsibility for teams and quality. We will provide you with targeted training so that you can confidently manage our construction sites throughout Europe.

We are looking for an experienced Junior Site Manager (m/f/d) – Technical Insulation to start as soon as possible.

Location: Klipphausen

The TLC package for your development

- Mentoring: We don't throw you in at the deep end, but provide you with targeted training.
- Mobility: Modern company car and up-to-date smartphone (both also for private use).
- Security: An attractive starting salary, a permanent contract, company health insurance and company pension scheme (bAV)
- Modernity: short decision-making processes, flat hierarchies and communication via employee app.

Your mission: Grow with us and take responsibility

- Learn from the best: You will support experienced site managers in managing and organizing our construction sites on site.
- Team leadership: Step by step, you take over the management of assembly teams and coordinate the use of materials.
- Quality at a glance: You will learn how to plan deadlines, ensure the quality of workmanship and professionally implement health and safety requirements.
- Communication: You will be the contact person for our customers and the project management directly in the action.

Your profile: Motivation meets technology

- Basis: You have completed training in the field of insulation, HVAC or MEP – perhaps you have just completed your master craftsman or technician qualification or are planning to do so.
- Language skills: As our projects and teams are international, business fluent English is a must for you (German is equally important).
- Personality: You are committed, have strong communication skills and are keen to develop professionally and personally.
