Junior Project Manager (m/f/d) – Technical Building Services and Insulation – Nationwide

Your career interface: From specialist to project strategist

You know technical insulation from practical experience, but now you want to hold the reins? At TLC, we offer you the perfect introduction to project management. We support our customers with major international projects and are looking for someone who combines technical understanding with organizational talent. We will develop you step by step into a (senior) project manager with full responsibility.

We are looking for an experienced Junior Project Manager (m/f/d) – Technical Building Services & Insulation – full-time as soon as possible.

Location: Klipphausen

The TLC package for your development

- Mentoring: We don't throw you in at the deep end, but provide you with targeted training.
- Mobility: Company cars and smartphones for our field staff.
- Security: An attractive starting salary, a permanent contract, company health insurance and a company pension scheme (bAV).
- Modernity: short decision-making processes, flat hierarchies and communication via employee app.

Your mission: plan, control, communicate

- Project support: You will support the costing, work preparation and scheduling of our projects.
- Communication center: You are the interface between customers, suppliers and our teams on site.
- Keeping an eye on progress: You monitor budgets and milestones and ensure clean reporting.
- Growth: You will learn from experienced mentors how to lead complex projects to economic and technical success.

Your profile: Technical foundation & organizational gene

- Background: You have completed training in the field of insulation, HVAC or MEP – ideally supplemented by further training as a master craftsman or technician.
- Ambition: You want to get out of purely operational assembly and into strategic planning and commercial management.
- Language skills: Business fluent English is a must for you, as you regularly communicate with international partners.
- Mindset: You are structured, reliable and have a confident manner towards customers
